

Hi! I'm Dan Foran and Welcome to Danielforan.com! So, you're considering online lessons or classes for yourself, or for someone close to you. I thought it would be a good idea to put together this short video, just to, kind of, introduce you to the ease and convenience of online lessons and classes.

For starters, you will need a computer with a decent webcam and microphone. Now, most computers today have them already built in. However, if you are looking to either add to or improve upon existing technology, I have compiled a short recommendation list which can be found on the lessons page at Danielforan.com

We use Skype, which is spelled S-K-Y-P-E, for our online lessons. Now, you will need to set up a personal account with Skype, however, the program is completely free unless, of course, you subscribe to the paid services of Skype. During the setup, they do ask for some personal information: your birthday, for instance, or your gender and what city you live in. They also ask for your cell phone number. However, that is optional.

So how do voice lessons work? Well, you're looking at it! As a matter of fact, this is the very room that I give my lessons from and this is the very system that I use. Because of the advances in the technology of communications, we can log on together from anywhere in the world, literally!

As for me, I have a Master's degree from Manhattan School of Music, which you see proudly hanging on the wall behind me! Manhattan School of Music is one of the finest music conservatories in the world and it is internationally recognized as having one of, if not the finest vocal program in the world. I offer flexible schedules for adults and for kids and my lessons are individually based and they're tailored to a student's specific needs.

Do you home school? Well, as it turns out, I also was home schooled from third grade all the way through high school and I thought it was wonderful! We offer rates for individuals and for families and you will have a solid foundation in musical understanding that will propel you to the future, no matter where that future lies.

As one of fourteen kids, I know what it's like to have financial concerns and I know that each situation is unique, like yours. Please contact me today for an appointment! It's an investment and time that will never be wasted, you'll never regret it! Please also view the lessons page on Danielforan.com, for more information. Thanks for watching and I look forward to hearing from you soon!
